ROYALS BLANK EASTERN TEAM IN CUP FINAL

Captures Dominion Soccer Title With 3-0 Triumph Over United Westons
COAST ELEVEN LED 2-0 AT INTERVAL

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12 (P)—Westminster Royals brought the Dominion football championship back to British Columbia tonight when they defeated United Westons of Winnipeg, 3-0 in the third and deciding game of the final series.
The Royals, victors in Saturday's 6-1 opening game and on the short end of Monday night's 2-1 score, put away their dislike of night playing and took the arc lights in their stride.
Jack Coulter and Dave Turner, Royals' high-scoring pair, who accounted for all six of Saturday's markers, played a major role in tonight's decision, each scoring once while Johnny McKay accounted for the other.
From the opening kickoff Royals took over the play and with the exception of field-length rushes or occasional close-in drives, Westons were kept on the defensive most of the match.

TURNER SCORES
Twenty minutes after the game opened J. Coulter, left half, took the ball into the Westons zone, headed it to McKay and the latter passed it on to Turner, who sent a low hard shot past the diving Johnny Reid in the Westons goal.
Barely ten minutes later McKay added another Royal counter after a heading bout in front of the Winnipeg goal.
The ball was noddled from player to player before the inside right sent it into an unprotected corner of the net, while Reid was watching the play from the opposite side of the goalmouth.

SEES NEED FOR HOUSING WORK
Employment Board Predicts Early Action on Remodeling of Buildings

OTTAWA, Aug. 12 (P)—The National Employment Commission tonight issued a statement saying its studies of the housing problems in Canada "have shown that rehabilitation and remodeling of existing structures present particularly favorable promise for early action" in its drive against unemployment.
At the same time, the statement said, the commission has found it advantageous to divide its work into two main classifications: "Formulation of such emergency measures as may be helpful in mitigating the severity of the seasonal employment problem" and "the longer-range plans."

REQUIRE MUCH STUDY
The statement emphasized such plans "require considerable study and analysis as a preliminary to the adoption."
"Individual commissions have spent some time in visiting areas which involve special problems, as for instance, Windsor, where special circumstances exist which have led to unusual restrictions on employment opportunities."
"The stage is now being reached where the situation can more specifically be explored with Provincial Government administrators."
"Steps are now on the way to develop a form of organization which will assist in enlisting an ever-enlarging co-operative effort on the part of the community as a whole towards solving many of the existing complex employment problems."

ARAB COMMITTEES ORDERED TO CONFER
JERUSALEM, Aug. 12 (CP-Havas).—All Arab committees in Palestine were in receipt of orders today from the Arab high committee to assemble here August 20 in an attempt to settle the civil strife which has caused many new deaths in the past few days.

Blind British and Canadian Veterans Meet

Blind Canadian ex-servicemen who traveled to Vimy for unveiling ceremonies at the great Canadian memorial, were entertained by their blind British brothers at a luncheon in the British Medical Association Hall, Tavistock Square, London. Here is shown a group attending the event with Sir Ian Fraser, blind British Parliamentary member, greeting Bertram Mayell, of Victoria. Capt. A. E. Baker, also of Canada, is on the left.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM ADVANTAGE IN FIGHT FOR SAN SEBASTIAN

Large Bush Fire Near Kapoor Camp Is Brought Under Control
MORE than thirty acres of green timber and brush were reported burning last evening near Wolf Creek, about twelve miles west of the city. The location is approximately one mile south of the Kapoor Lumber Company's settlement.
The blaze broke out at 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon and was under control in the early evening, according to word from Sooke Lake pipeline patrolmen. A strong breeze at dusk fanned smoldering embers into activity, and a ruddy glow could be readily seen from the city.
Two other smaller fires were brought under control in the afternoon. One raged near Henry Ella's property in the Sooke Bay area, and the other ate its way along Muir Mountain.

Governor Gains New Honor as Chieftain of Famous Indian Tribe

Crees of Saskatchewan Recognize His Fame as Novelist by Naming Him Chief "Teller of Tales" in Colorful Ceremony
CARLTON, Sask., Aug. 12 (P)—Baron Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, became Chief Okemow Ootawken—"Teller of Tales"—today, and a member of the Cree Indian tribe.

SELASSIE NOW FEELS HAPPIER

Staying in West of England While Considering Future Programme
BATH, Eng. Aug. 12 (P)—Emperor Haile Selassie is resting here, hoping some day to re-establish his Ethiopian kingdom.
The Negus apparently is more cheerful than at any time since the League of Nations gave a cold shoulder to his plea for financial assistance. He has taken heart, his spokesman said today, by reports that remnants of his armies are operating in Western Ethiopia and hope to retake Addis Ababa.

SEATTLE SAILOR GIVEN FREEDOM

Owner of Car Which Killed Victoria Woman Unable to Identify Man as Driver
SEATTLE, Aug. 12 (P)—Police tonight released a twenty-eight-year-old seaman whom they arrested on suspicion of "being the driver of an automobile which fatally injured Mrs. Catherine Galloway, Victoria, B.C., Sunday.
Marguerite Michalski, thirty-six, owner of the automobile, failed to identify him in the police lineup as the man she said fled from her automobile after it careened across a sidewalk and struck Mrs. Galloway, walking with her husband, James Galloway.
Investigating officers said the seaman was cleared of suspicion. Miss Michalski was at liberty under $5,000 coroner's bail.

Takes Long Walk To Doctor After Tossed by a Bull

STURGIS, Sask., Aug. 12 (P)—Nick Toma, sixty-four, was tossed by a bull. He had a broken arm, bruised chest and thigh, but he "could take it." He beat off the animal with a whip. Then he walked fifteen miles to a doctor. He couldn't stand the jolting of a wagon taking him to the physician, so he got out.

C.C.F. PLANK IS RIDICULED

Interior Club Backs Connell Group as Expulsions Grow—Reorganization Hinted
Formation of an independent Socialist group in British Columbia was believed actively under canvass at Vancouver meetings yesterday, as a direct result of the C.C.F. split. Rev. Robert Connell and others from Victoria were on the Mainland, from whence a definite announcement as to whether or not the plan is to proceed is expected toward the end of this week.

Meanwhile, at Vancouver, the Provincial executive of the C.C.F. announced the expulsion of Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., official leader of the Opposition in the Legislature; Jack Price, M.P.P., and R. B. Swales, M.P.P., three of the C.C.F. members in the Legislature.
PLATFORM REPUDIATED
Taking issue in the dispute, the Grand Forks C.C.F. Club sent letters this week to the Provincial executive of that party and to Rev. Robert Connell, in which the latter's stand was upheld, and the programme of the Provincial convention flatly repudiated.

The letter to Mr. Connell from Mrs. Anthony Whitehead, secretary of the Grand Forks C.C.F. Club, said in part: "We admire the stand you have taken and trust that the bulk of our membership will have the stability not to be swayed at this time by unscrupulous persons who considered the welfare of the movement in British Columbia to be but of secondary importance."
The Grand Forks letter to the Provincial executive of the C.C.F. was forthright in its comment on the socialist finance plank in the 1936 platform.

WILL CONSIDER ALBERTA SCIP

Federal Cabinet to Discuss Legality of Certificates Next Week

OTTAWA, Aug. 12 (P)—When the Cabinet meets next week, it is expected the report of the Justice Department on the question of whether the Alberta Government has legal and constitutional right to issue prosperity certificates will be available.
At the conclusion of a brief meeting of the Cabinet today, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the report will be considered some day next week, when a larger attendance of ministers may be expected. Today only routine matters were dealt with and no announcements followed the meeting.

PAYS VISIT TO CROATIAN PORT

His Majesty Engages in Game of Bowls With Novigrad Citizens
NOVIGRAD, Jugoslavia, Aug. 12 (CP-Havas).—When King Edward came ashore on this picturesque Croatian port today, he found the ancient houses adorned with the British and Jugoslav flags and the populace engaged in a spirited game of bowls on the local bowling green.
His Majesty was intrigued by the Jugoslav version of the game and bought a set of bowls.

H. Forrester Nominated By Liberals

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12 (P)—Howard Forrester, long prominent in Liberal affairs in Vancouver-Burrard, was chosen as party candidate to contest that riding in the forthcoming provincial by-election. Dr. Lyle Telford was chosen last night by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and Dr. Frank Patterson is most prominently named as the Conservative choice.

SKID BRINGS DEATH

SEATTLE, Aug. 12 (P)—Traveling at high speed, State Patrolman Paul McKain reported, an automobile carrying five young Spokane residents skidded on the highway six miles east of North Bend last night, killing Harry A. Stone, twenty-one, and seriously injuring two of the others.

Tension Grows When Japanese Augment Force

Chinese Fear That Concentration of Troops in West Chahar Means Invasion of Inner Mongolia—Nipponese Spokesman Denies Knowledge Of Movements—Situation Serious

SHANGHAI, Aug. 12 (P)—Reinforced Japanese troops, it was reported here tonight, are poised for a fresh invasion of Suiyuan Province in Inner Mongolia—adding new tension to strained relations between Japan and China.
Although a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin denied contemplated participation in events in Inner Mongolia, vernacular newspapers here asserted two companies from Jehol, in Manchukuo, had joined the Japanese forces at Dolonor.
Large numbers were concentrating at Shangtu, West Chahar, in preparation for a fresh invasion of the East Suiyuan Province, it was asserted here.

LOSES PLANE IN AUSTRIA

Famous English Flyer Says Machine Held After Visit To Exiled Monarch
CANNES, France, Aug. 12 (P)—T. O. Cathcart Jones, famed English distance flyer, returned here tonight from a flight in an American plane, which, he said, was seized in Austria.
Jones flew two Spanish monarchists to confer with the abdicated Spanish King, Alfonso, at Maribad, Czechoslovakia. He said he acted as pilot for James Haislip, of St. Louis, Mo., representative of an American airplane manufacturer.

CHARGE FRANCE IS OBSTRUCTING

Opposition Leaders Blame Private Operations for Delaying Neutrality
PARIS, Aug. 12 (P)—Opposition leaders charged tonight that France's tolerance of aid to the Madrid Socialist Government was obstructing the proposed international neutrality pact.
They blamed specifically raising of private funds and enlistment of Frenchmen as volunteers to aid the Spanish Government as slowing progress towards a non-intervention agreement.
Twelve powers, including Italy, have approved the French formula, but Rome, making reservations and suggestions, limited itself to adhesion "in principle."
Germany has shown similar reluctance and so far has failed to reply formally to the French suggestion.

FLOODS IN INDIA RAVAGE VILLAGES

BOMBAY, Aug. 12 (P)—Four thousand villages were submerged by raging floods today which ruined 20,000 homes.
The torrents struck approximately one-third of India while another third of the country was offering prayers and sacrifices for relief from drought and famine.
The floods destroyed roads and crops as dams burst. Authorities opened refugee camps in the united central provinces and at other points.

Hundreds of Fires Make Serious Threat In Three Provinces

Continuance of Dry Weather Menacing All Canadian Timber Areas—Large Forces of Men Fighting Flames in Many Districts
(By the Canadian Press)
FIRE rangers from Ontario to the West Coast raised anxious eyes today in the hope rain would bring to an end a forest fire situation which has become serious in three provinces. Several hundred fires are being fought between Ontario and British Columbia.

Few fires were reported out of control last night, but continued dry weather has made the situation serious in all of Canada's timber areas.
In an almost inaccessible district of the Banff National Park fire was reported gaining a slight headway. Men were being sent to the scene over eighty miles of trails. Fires nearer Banff were being brought under control. The situation was serious in the foothills southwest of Calgary.
The village of Aahern, between Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba, was reported threatened by bush and grass fire and all available men were battling the flames. Early last night the fire was five miles from town. More than 350 men are fighting some thirty fires in Manitoba.
In Saskatchewan seven or five fires were being fought by 250 men and the situation was described as serious.
In the vast Sault Ste. Marie fire district sixty-five miles were being battled by more than 800 men. Some were reported raging out of control.

GRAVE ISSUES ARE GROWING BETWEEN NATIONS IN ORIENT

By JAMES A. MILLER
Associated Press Foreign Staff
SHANGHAI, Aug. 12 (P)—Reinforced Japanese troops, it was reported here tonight, are poised for a fresh invasion of Suiyuan Province in Inner Mongolia—adding new tension to strained relations between Japan and China.
Although a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin denied contemplated participation in events in Inner Mongolia, vernacular newspapers here asserted two companies from Jehol, in Manchukuo, had joined the Japanese forces at Dolonor.
Large numbers were concentrating at Shangtu, West Chahar, in preparation for a fresh invasion of the East Suiyuan Province, it was asserted here.

FOREIGNERS ANXIOUS

Foreign observers, watching the clouds of dissension gather, believed serious action might result.
Activities of the Japanese army in North China and Inner Mongolia were regarded as grave issues between the two countries. Specific causes of disagreement between them, authoritative Chinese sources contended are:
1. Assorted increase of Japanese troops in Peking, Tientsin and elsewhere in North China. The Chinese estimate the total at 100,000.
2. Japan's alleged attempts to weaken the authority of the Nationalist Government.

NO EVIDENCE OF FOUL PLAY

Inquest Finds J. J. Beckett Died From Blood Clot On Brain
John James Beckett, the elderly man whose body was found on Tuesday off Waldron Island, Washington, was not the victim of foul play, but died as the result of a blood clot on the brain, was established at a coroner's inquest at Friday Harbor yesterday.

TEMPERATURE IS HIGHEST OF YEAR

Mercury Soars to Seventy-Six Degrees at Gonzales—Ninety-Hottest Last Year
Victorians experienced the hottest day of the year yesterday when the thermometer atop Gonzales Heights registered 76 degrees. This surpasses by two degrees the second hottest day, May 12, when a temperature of 74 degrees was recorded.
It was much hotter in the city, however, with the thermometer up to 81 degrees in several places.
Although Victoria has been basking in sunshine since the middle of July, no extremely hot days have been experienced compared with last year, when a temperature of 90 degrees was recorded at Gonzales on July 13—last year's second hottest day was August 28, when "Old Red" sweltered Victorians under an 88 degree sun.

Symphony Orchestra Charms Thousands In Outdoor Concert

Sir Ernest MacMillan Conducts Musicians Trained In Vancouver—Music Enjoyed to the Full by Mixed Audience in Stanley Park

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12 (P)—A symphony orchestra played tonight among the reaching pines of Stanley Park, sending its full-throated music up through the shadowed slopes where thousands gathered.

More than 15,000 persons—sitting, standing, kneeling on the grass of the shallow hollow where the musicians played—raptly listened while the baton of Sir Ernest MacMillan brought out the changing themes of a concerto or the sombre passages of a fugue, dark as the massive shadows that curtained the stage.

PACKED HUMANITY
It was not a symphony audience that listened. Mothers with babies in their arms and holding children by the hands, stood on the edges of the solid mass of humanity that packed the natural auditorium. Boys sat on bicycles and remained quiet, families squatted on motor robes and girls in overall coats chewing gum blankly in staccato rhythm.

But even the swelling chords of the great orchestra, failed to mute the throbbing rhythm of swing music that thrived through the night from another corner of the jubilee-decked natural park. And babies crying in the centre of the audience broke intermittently the even sequence of the music.

A TENSE SILENCE
Silence settled tensely over the massed audience, however, when the strong, sensitive fingers of Jan Chermiavsky brought the climatic pianoforte passages from the Schumann score and when, in the same movement the sharp voices of the violins soared in mounting chorus. Dressed informally in white flannels and blue jacket, the moving figure of Sir Ernest, was minute against the massive background.

Pickwick Mountain, commanding Iron, by fire from Fort Guadalupe and San Sebastian.

Three-fourths of the rebel militia on the Iron front were in retreat toward Pamplona, Government officers estimated.

The victory will be followed by an immediate Loyalist march on Pamplona, rebel stronghold. Government officers told this correspondent. The rebels, who captured Tolosa yesterday, today had advanced to Villabona, about three and a half miles northward, to encircle the Loyalist forces in an ever-tightening circle.

Men and women of the Loyalist militia tonight fought side by side to defend Iron, with much hand-to-hand fighting.

FASCIST ASSERTION
BURGOS, Rebel G.H.Q., Aug. 12 (CP-Havas).—Factories confiscated at Tolosa by the rebel forces were turning out war supplies at full speed tonight to attempt to blast the Loyalists from their precarious foothold in beleaguered San Sebastian, fifteen miles to the northeast, it was reported here tonight.

Already suffering from a severe water shortage, San Sebastian's population was reportedly fleeing the city before the threat of its almost certain capitulation.

Tolosa capture furnished General Emilio Mola's men with an important source of arms and ammunition, it was pointed out.

C.C.F. PLANK IS RIDICULED

convention platform. It reads, in part, as follows:

PLANK FORM RIDICULED
"The Grand Forks C.C.F. Club held a special meeting on Wednesday, August 5, to consider what action should be taken in regard to the split between the Provincial executive, certain M.P.'s and other prominent C.C.F. members."

The minutes of the special meeting of the Provincial executive held July 29, together with correspondence between Lyle Telford and Robert Connell, were read and discussed. Also your offer to send speakers to address our meeting to explain, as you put it, "more fully the nationalities of the disoriented group."

"By a motion duly made and seconded, which carried unanimously, I am instructed to advise you that this club takes in the matter."

"We are opposed to much of the British Columbia Provincial platform as adopted at the 1935 convention. Plank 2 (finance) savors too much of the comic opera attempt to govern by the Social Credit party of Alberta. It reads: 'The adoption of Provincial socialized finance. What form of Provincial socialized finance? And is there more than one form? Surely you must know that the Provincial Government has no jurisdiction over the issuing of money. Section 138 of the Bank Act (chapter 24, 1933) is cited."

"We cannot believe the convention considered the platform, and especially this plank, in detail and decided that it was sound and decided to meet the situation facing the people of British Columbia, as you claim in your statement to the press. Confident that no one understands how a Provincial Government can put this plank into operation, we have not the slightest hesitation in affirming we do not understand it and are absolutely opposed to it."

"We are of the opinion that paragraph four of the said statement is just a lot of words."

QUESTION OF CONTROL
"We also fail to see how the resolution mentioned in paragraph six gives control of elected representatives to the movement as a whole, as you claim. We think it gives control to a minority—the Provincial executive—who are not representative of the movement in British Columbia. We are of the opinion the 1936 convention was ruled by a noisy minority."

"We are opposed to the control of the Commonwealth being turned over to the Provincial executive. It is too dangerous."

"Finally, we are afraid that unless the Provincial executive gets its head out of the clouds it will be expelling whole clubs after it runs out of M.P.'s, and in its own opinion the C.C.F. British Columbia section will consist only of itself."

Copies of the correspondence were made available here by apponents of the group at variance with the Provincial executive over the whole issue. Much, they said, would depend on what stand the national council of the C.C.F. may take in reference to the British Columbia tangle of the party. Reorganization under national direction, or formation of an independent Socialist group, were seen as the immediate alternatives.

LANDS BIG FISH
First Time Out

LIVERPOOL, N.S., Aug. 12 (P)—An amateur fisherman who had never seen a tuna in his life today caught the second largest fish taken off Nova Scotia this year.

R. R. Collard, of Winnipeg, taking a day off from a business trip down here, fought three hours and ten minutes to land his 77-pound tuna with rod and line. He hooked the fish five minutes after it was first sighted.

But just after Collard's fish had been weighed, Dr. J. R. Brinkley, of Del Rio, Texas, came in with a 757-pounder.

3. Japanese economic and political penetration of Inner Mongolia, where Japanese officers and government agents have been appointed as military or political advisers to the native Mongol Government.

Other allegations advanced are that Japan constantly seeks special privileges in China; that the Nippon Empire fosters wholesale smuggling into North China; that Japan refuses to treat China as an equal in all dealings.

ROYALS BLANK EASTERN TEAM

The teams left the field at half-time with the British Columbia eleven leading 3-0.

After the interval the Royals kept up their forcing tactics and fifteen minutes from resumption Coulter headed the Royals' third goal and the last score of the game.

Turner had snapped a short kick from close in and when Reid failed to handle properly, Coulter got the ball on the rebound and nodded it into the open net.

But for the brilliant work of Reid, Royals would have more than doubled the score.

A half dozen times the lanky goalie outgassed Coast attackers as they came in close after beating the Winnipeg defence. He also saved a steaming drive from Turner on a penalty kick awarded when "Mac" Hershfield dumped McKay in the first half.

Norman Foster, Formerly of Victoria, Organized British Bungalow at San Diego

Everyone in Victoria knows about the California Pacific International Exposition that has been in progress in San Diego this year, but only a small percentage has heard that it is a British bungalow where characteristic British exhibits are shown, and where afternoon tea is served every day under the direction of charming British hostesses.

Norman Foster, chairman of the house committee, who is enjoying a few weeks' holiday in Victoria, reports that among the more than 100,000 persons who have visited the bungalow during the season, at least 200 came from Victoria and registered their names in the guest book. A corps of sixty women, trained to supply the hostesses required during the season, their most important duties falling on the gala days when ships from Victoria visited port and brought in their train a special rush of visitors, with band concerts and other special features. "Bert" Moody, a former Victorian, who has been acting as first cornet of the exposition band throughout the year, gave much appreciated help in the British bungalow on numerous occasions.

GOOD TO BE BACK
"It is good to get back to Victoria. I find very little change in the appearance of the city, except that the business section seems to have migrated farther north and east during the last seventeen or eighteen years," Mr. Foster noted. As he is fully eighteen years since he was here last, changes should be apparent.

Mr. Foster, it should be noted, left here with the 103rd Battalion, C.E.F., and after long service overseas, returned, was demobilized and went south almost immediately afterwards. This is the first time he has been back, and he is greatly enjoying his quiet holiday.

LOVELY PARK
"I have seen nothing more beautiful than Beacon Hill Park in any of the cities of the South," he reported, at the same time expressing regret that the Victoria Publicity Bureau is not making more capital out of this unique asset of British Columbia's capital city. Another beautiful park, from the tourist standpoint, is that at Goldstream. One would search far to find anything lovelier. All visitors from the American cities he knew would be impressed, as he himself has been, by the quiet dignity of the audience at the band concerts in the park here. People from south of the line expected to find just this atmosphere in Victoria, and he thought it would be a mistake for the city to try to alter it and "pop it up" to resemble the pace of life usually found elsewhere on the continent.

"Another thing visitors from the South appreciate about Victoria is that you let them alone to walk about quietly and enjoy things in a simple way. In my work I meet hosts of Americans who have been to Victoria and they all like it, although many complain about the bad roads," Mr. Foster said.

GIFT FOR THE KING
The Indian chiefs, with 2,500 of their tribesmen, intently watching the ceremonies, presented Lord Tweedsmuir with a beaded robe, a coronation gift for the King. They created, also, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King an honorary chief. The Prime Minister, now in Ottawa, was named Oreenew Wpewuseew—"Wise Counsellor."

Carlton, a fur-trading centre eighty years ago, was the Mecca of Indians and white men from all parts of North Saskatchewan and Alberta, who joined in the re-enactment of the historic treaty signing. For a brief two hours, from 10 a.m. until noon, Carlton resembled again the frontier town it once was.

OFFICIAL WELCOME
The vice-regal party left immediately after the ceremonies for Saskatoon. There, tonight, the Governor-General was officially welcomed to the city, the third he has entered since he began last week his first official tour of Western Canada.

The ceremonies were held on a pavilion having a popular grove as a background. "Teller of Tales"—John Dunn before his appointment to the vice-regal post—spoke to the assembled chiefs in their own tongue.

In Cree. His Excellency said: "Brother chiefs, I am most happy on this occasion. You have done me great honor in taking me into your brotherhood."

Men on Strike at Glace Bay Mines

GLACE BAY, N.S., Aug. 12 (P)—Four mines in the Glace Bay coalfields were tide up tonight as the ranks of the strikers swelled to 3,000.

Miners of three pits walked out in sympathy with No. 2 Longwall Johnstone mine before higher pay. The strike was spreading rapidly behind agitators addressing mass meetings.

Tuna Found Gull Too Indigestible

YARMOUTH, N.S., Aug. 12 (P)—A seagull with a broken wing was shown here today as evidence of the wrath of one of Nova Scotia's giant tuna fish. Fishermen claim the fish became angry at the gull, broke water, swallowed the bird and spewed it up a minute later.

Central Films Will Remain Undisturbed In Present Location

Agreement Reached by Which City Council, Agricultural Association and Chamber of Commerce Will Co-operate in Straightening Out Tangle

At a meeting of the directors of the British Columbia Agricultural Association yesterday with the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce that has had in hand the matter of adjusting the situation as far as Central Films, Limited, is concerned so as to avoid the vacating of the Industrial Building at the Exhibition Grounds, the whole matter was finally disposed of.

Central Films, Ltd., will remain where it is without any removal of the equipment that is in place in that building. The Automobile Building on the grounds will be overhauled at once and will be available as an industrial building for the coming show.

To carry this out, the city stands behind $10,000 of the expenditure of overhauling the Automobile Building as was agreed upon at the council meeting on Monday night. The British Columbia Agricultural Association assumes another $10,000 of the necessary expenditure. The Chamber of Commerce will, through the good offices of the special committee dealing with this subject, proceed to raise another $10,000 which will be devoted to the work.

MUST ACT QUICKLY
In keeping with the arrangements entered into, work must start at once. A new roof will be needed on the Automobile Building and, of necessity, attention will have to be given to the putting in of a new floor with certain modifications in the foundations to suit the alterations.

To be ready for the fair, there is no time to lose, and the whole work will be placed under the supervision of D. K. Kennedy, building inspector of the city, who will be responsible for the carrying out of the work which will be by tender. Following the settlement of the whole matter, R. H. B. Ker, chairman of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, expressed his great satisfaction with the way in which the matter had been settled. He tendered the thanks of the committee to the Agricultural Association for its action. The situation had been felt to have been an important one representing the maintenance of an industry in moving picture production in Victoria which it would be well to foster.

letter was read by Secretary W. H. Mearns covering the situation as arrived at. This letter read as follows:

"To the Mayor and council of Victoria.
"We beg to advise you that under the terms of our lease with you, it is our desire to spend a sum sufficient for the improvement of our buildings for the purpose of accommodating Central Films, Ltd., towards which sum you were good enough to grant $10,000.
"There were present yesterday at the meeting of the Agricultural Association Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, president; W. H. Mearns, secretary; W. T. Strath, Alderman Walter Loney, Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter, Alderman Andrew McGavin and Alderman T. W. Hawkins.
"The Chamber of Commerce was represented by R. H. B. Ker as the chairman of the committee, Alderman P. R. Brown, Duncan MacBride, G. H. Stevens and James Parfitt, with William Findlay, assistant secretary.

"A cheque for the balance of the cost will be mailed to you in due course to cover our share of the said expenditure.
"Yours faithfully,
"W. H. MEARNS,
"Secretary, British Columbia Agricultural Association."

"There were present yesterday at the meeting of the Agricultural Association Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, president; W. H. Mearns, secretary; W. T. Strath, Alderman Walter Loney, Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter, Alderman Andrew McGavin and Alderman T. W. Hawkins.
"The Chamber of Commerce was represented by R. H. B. Ker as the chairman of the committee, Alderman P. R. Brown, Duncan MacBride, G. H. Stevens and James Parfitt, with William Findlay, assistant secretary.

"On motion of the two directors, Alderman Walter Loney and Alderman Andrew McGavin, the directors of the exhibition decided that this notice would be forwarded.

DRIVE FOR FAIR
With this accomplished, Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., president of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, who presided over the directors' meeting, having just returned from Ottawa, directed his attention to the subject of insuring that nothing would be done as a result of the switching of the location for the industrial displays that would be detrimental to the coming fair.

Dr. Tolmie asked Mr. Ker and his committee to undertake the task of calling upon all prospective exhibitors and inform them as to what had been done and to see that there was no lack of interest in the fair. Mr. Ker said that the chamber would co-operate in every way with the directors in aiding the exhibition.

Alderman Loney stressed the need of co-operation also. He felt that the financial expenditures that were to be made required that this united action was still more necessary.
Dr. Tolmie expressed the hope that this year Victoria would make a determined effort to maintain the reputation of the district in an agricultural way. After the record established in the past two years in carrying off the prizes for the district, he felt that there would be an effort to make a great showing again this year.

Setting up Interior fruit and vegetable marketing boards afresh this week, the Provincial Government handed each board the full benefit of British Columbia authority under amended marketing legislation.

The British Columbia Tree Fruit Board was reconstituted with Walter E. Haskins, George A. Barratt and Orrie W. Hembling as members, and much of the province as its field.

The British Columbia Interior Vegetable Board was named by the reappointment of Thomas Wilkinson, Robert B. Homersham and Edward Poole, with jurisdiction over ten fruit-growing districts in the Okanagan and Kootenay valleys.

Section 5 of the amended provincial marketing statute was incorporated in both schemes, with extensive powers to licence and control domestic sales.

SAANICH BID IS ACCEPTED

A. McKinty, Royal Oak, Will Build North Saanich High School

Two contracts were awarded by the Provincial Government yesterday, one concerning provincial mining trails in the Manson Creek area, and the other government-assisted construction of the new high school at North Saanich.

A. McKinty, of Royal Oak, who tendered on the North Saanich School, was notified that his bid had been accepted and contract would be entered for $22,344. The Province is to contribute one-fifth of the cost of construction, it was said.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson announced the school award, and also a contract let to the Associated Engineering Company, Ltd., for approximately ten miles of mining trail in the Manson Creek area, and other work. The company's bid of $49,342 was the lowest received, and contract is being closer at that figure.

On Monday the Province will open its next set of road tenders, for miscellaneous highway work at Mainland and Island points.

TRoubles ARE EXAGGERATED
Dr. Albert Weir, Edinburgh, Reports Europe Remembers Last War Too Well

European troubles are greatly exaggerated in Canada, in the opinion of Dr. Albert Weir, Edinburgh educationist, who is paying a hurried visit to his homeland. Dr. Weir went to Scotland after the Great War.

"Europe remembers 1914 to 1918 too well to get into war again in a hurry," he maintained, although admitting Germany had developed a tremendous fighting machine and hoped for the restoration of a German-Austrian empire. Mussolini, however, looks on Austria as Italy's ward. In any case Poland will be "nipped" and Dr. Weir explained he "should not like to be a Pole these days."

OPPOSED TO WAR
He doubted if Great Britain would be drawn into the trouble, as public opinion there was too strong, and was respected by the Government. Asked about his work, Dr. Weir explained: "I teach Scots to speak English."

GIVES IMPRESSIONS
Asked about his impressions of Canada today, he said: "The brown arms and legs of the youngsters—We have not enough sunshine in Scotland for that; disappearance of baseball, and rise of the tourist industry. When I visited Canada ten years ago I was surprised to see the wood-pulp industry had climbed up alongside wheat. Now it is the tourist industry."

Scotland did not suffer from the depression to the same extent as Canada and the United States, in Dr. Weir's opinion. Today the country is going ahead splendidly, with shipbuilding yards doing great business.

BOYS GUESTS OF ROTARY AT PARK
Annual Picnic Held for Underprivileged Youths by Club at Goldstream Yesterday

Underprivileged boys between the ages of ten and fifteen years were guests of the boys' work committee of the local Rotary Club, at the annual picnic held yesterday afternoon in Goldstream Park. About forty boys members of the committee and their wives attended the outing, which was greatly enjoyed by both young and old.

Leaving the Y.M.C.A. at 1:30 o'clock, the picnic party proceeded to the park in automobiles furnished by members of the club. During the afternoon, races, swimming and baseball were indulged in by the youngsters.

Ice cream, candy and "pop" were distributed, and later supper was served by the committee members, under the co-operation of Mrs. Alfred Dowell.

The happy party returned to the city at 7:30 in the evening. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Frank Shandley (chairman), A. H. Lindner, Alfred Dowell, John V. Johnson, Jack Mackay, Tom Bradbury and Mason Sands.

Survey of Victoria School System and Salaries Proposed

Expecting Radical Changes in Provincial Educational Curriculum, City Trustees Desire B.C. Department to Make Suggestions

A SURVEY of the Victoria school system, teachers' salaries, properties and equipment will be made by the British Columbia Department of Education, provided the city School Board finds the cost satisfactory.

In view of expected radical changes in the Provincial school system and curriculum, several Victoria trustees, at a meeting of the school board last night, felt that a survey at this time would be wise. Trustee Kenneth Ferguson, who introduced the proposal after he and Trustee Percy E. George had reported on an interview with Hon. Dr. O. M. Weir, Minister of Education, and Major H. B. King, technical adviser in education, contended a survey should be made before any large sums were spent on city school buildings. Savings might be made, it was hinted.

Possibility of junior high schools being established in Victoria was foreseen by trustees.

EXPLAIN STAND
The board was unanimous in assuring School Inspector George H. Deane that their decision to have a survey was not a reflection on his efficiency and ability.

Trustees Ferguson, George and John Wallace were named to a committee to investigate the matter. With Trustees Ferguson and C. R. Bishop registering strong opposition, a motion authorizing the expenditure of $600 on a new roof for the manual training annex at Boys' Central School was passed. The opposing trustees declared the building was not worthy of such expenditure and suggested it would be better to recondition some other school building now vacant for a manual training school.

On his own recommendation, W. Walsh, janitor at Victoria High School, was transferred to Burnside School.

Contract of supplying cordwood to schools was let to J. E. Pearce & Sons, Ltd. at a price of $4 per cord. The board authorized the sale of a number of old desks from Rock Bay School.

SEEK NEW GRADE FOR BANK STREET SCHOOL

Asking for the creation of a fourth grade in Bank Street School, now housing only primary divisions, a petition signed by forty-one parents was presented to the Victoria School Board last night. By a delegation comprising W. De Gruyter, Mrs. E. A. Sandahl and E. P. Creech, School Inspector George H. Deane was asked by the board to investigate the matter and report back. Seventeen pupils passed from the Bank Street School into the fourth grade this term and unless such a class is added to the school the children will have to travel long distances to the Central School, Margaret Jenkins School or Oaklands School, Mr. Creech stated.

AMONG LEADERS IN BABY RACE

Mrs. John Nagle Gives Birth To Tenth Child in Ten Years

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (P)—The tenth baby in ten years was born to Mrs. John Nagle last night to place her well up among leaders in the Charles Vance Millar baby race, the winner of which will receive about $500,000—unless the courts set the document aside.

Under the terms of the Toronto lawyers will the mother giving birth to the most babies in Toronto in the ten-year period following his death, will receive the residue of his estate. The time is up October 31, 1936.

Leading in the race are Mrs. Martin Kemp, who claims twelve children born within that time, Mrs. Arthur Timleck, Mrs. Grace Barnato and Mrs. Nagle with ten each. The nine-pound baby born to Mrs. Nagle last night is the twelfth since her marriage at the age of seventeen. She was thirty-four in June. All but one are living.

A RETROSPECTION OF BOWLING MEET

By W. H. VOYSELL
The ninth annual tournament of the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association is a thing of the past, and most of those who took part in it will be glad of a respite for a few days at least. The affair was a huge success, but it was most trying upon the competitors, especially those who were fortunate enough to remain any length of time in the various competitions. It was not therefore, held out of place for one to participate in the event to offer a few suggestions.

To begin with, we would tender our congratulations to those upon whose shoulders rested the task of looking after the many details which are necessary to such an undertaking. With the limited accommodation at their command, as well as lack of adequate funds with which to meet the requirements of such an undertaking, they are entitled to the full measure of approbation.

Therefore, looking to the future, it might be well to draw attention to some of the things which would assist greatly in improving conditions under which such an event must be held.

Victoria and Vancouver Island are spending considerable sums of money for the purpose of attracting visitors, and their object is a worthy one. But it must, however, be remembered that all these agencies which attract visitors should have equal consideration in so far as financing is concerned.

NEW OUTSIDERS

The lawn bowling tournament attracts a large number of outsiders, and provision must be made for bowling greens upon which they may test their skill against each other. Up to the present, the expense of the upkeep of the greens has rested entirely upon the individual clubs providing for which must be made from the club funds. Each bowling club in the district has done everything possible to play its greens in such shape that they will not only accommodate all visitors who may put in an appearance, but also be in perfect condition for good bowling. During the time intervening between the commencement of the season and the holding of the tournament, those in charge of each bowling club in Greater Victoria have put forth every effort to place their plants in as perfect condition as possible.

To a great extent, they have been successful, but lack of funds has been a severe handicap, and several of the greens were scarcely in a condition which might be termed proper on which to conduct a test of skill at the game. In view of these conditions, it is but fitting to suggest that the City of Victoria and the Province of British Columbia should make up the deficit between what the various clubs can afford and what is absolutely necessary to place the playing grounds in proper condition.

School Board to Ask for Younger Teachers in City

APPOINTEES to Victoria school staffs in future will be younger than those heretofore, the city school board decided by resolution last night, after Trustee Kenneth Ferguson, chairman of the finance committee, pointed out demands on the pension fund were greater than it could carry. The difference was being met by the pensions board which was charging the city 5 per cent interest.

There was a question which was freely discussed during the progress of the tournament which might well have been eschewed, and that was the presence in some of the rinks competing of those who were not active, but associate, members of the clubs under whose names they were playing, although they were fully accredited members of other clubs in good standing. In many quarters objections were voiced, and suggestions were even made that protests be entered. It is fortunate that this course was not followed.

The instances in question were among the visiting rinks, and it would not have been very sportsmanlike on the part of those who make their homes here to have raised an objection, when on various occasions Victoria rinks attending tournaments in Vancouver and in the United States have followed the practice to which objection was taken by some. And it might be stated that one of the best and most prominent rinks in British Columbia, whose headquarters are in Victoria, had, as one of its members during the tournament just concluded, one of the best known and most competent bowlers of a Vancouver club.

Visitors should be offered every encouragement to come here, and because they find it necessary to include players from other clubs than their own, that is no reason why they should be termed "pothunters". Young Men Receive Certificates and Leave Nanaimo River for Interior

NANAIMO, Aug. 12.—The Government placer camp on Nanaimo River, where, under the direction of Instructors J. McGregor and James Rennie, young men are taught the art of placer mining and prospecting generally, has this season already turned out thirty graduates who have received their certificates and have left for other points in the Interior and some for the Zeballos River area in the northern part of the Island. They have received their equipment and three months' grubstake from the Government.

On Monday more "pupils" are to arrive in the camp to undergo tuition. Most of the arrivals are from points on the Mainland, with one from Nanaimo, one from Parksville and one from Ladysmith. There have been fifty-six youths at the camp since its opening this season.

OLD BOYS HOLD ANNUAL OUTING

Former Residents of Three Ontario Counties Gather at Mt. Douglas Park

Bruce, Huron and Grey Old Boys held their annual basket picnic yesterday afternoon at Mount Douglas Park. Approximately 200 residents of the three Ontario counties attended and entered into the friendly spirit prevailing, reminiscing and recalling the early days in the East. Sports, including quoits, horseshoe, pitching, shuffleboard and baseball, were enjoyed during the afternoon. Rev. J. W. Churchill was the principal speaker at the sit-down supper served in the evening. The subject of Mr. Churchill's talk was "What Are You Worth to Your Community?"

Wood Cuts Are Shown By Hostess

Mrs. C. I. Alexander entertained several friends at her charming home on St. David Street yesterday afternoon, when the interest centered in a small exhibition of woodcuts by the distinguished English artist, Vera Waddington.

Part of a larger collection, by the same artist, shown in London, these twenty woodcuts disclosed wide variety of subject matter as well as distinguished craftsmanship, the bird and animal studies being particularly striking both in design and execution. From a collector's standpoint "The Indian Woman," bought by the Contemporary Art Society for the English nation, and which had honorable mention at the International Exhibition held in Chicago in 1933, is one of the most sensitive, the refinement and delicacy of the lines showing masterly touch and a sure hand in the same class for deftness and skill in "The Indian Mother," which, with peculiar paucity of line, suggests an untouch grace in the figure of the mother, and the relaxed curves of the child's figure.

As really decorative pictures "Sea Swallows," "The Seagulls," and "Ducks," are most appealing, and bear out the Times critic's appreciation of the way in which the artist varies her style according to medium. "Ducks," by the way, has also been purchased by the Contemporary Art Society for the English nation. Other subjects in this interesting collection are "The Cat," "The Thinker," "Holy Family," "The Gardener," "Asphodels," "Horse Grazing," "The Water Gipsy," "The Kittens," "Washing Pool," "Tortoise," "Tabby Cat," "The Wave," "Primula," "Cows by the Sea," "Cat on Cushion," and "The Goat."

Royal Oak

A delightful afternoon was spent on Tuesday when the annual parish picnic of St. Michael's Church, Royal Oak and St. Columba's Church, Strawberry Vale, was held at the Elk Lake Athletic Park. The picnicers were conveyed by cars to and from the picnic grounds, where the time was spent in games of softball, swimming and races, and later all sat down to supper, which was served by the Sunday school teachers and women members of the parish.

DRUG GANG IS TRAILED

Arrest of Marine Officer Causes Discovery of International Traffic

PARIS, Aug. 12 (B.U.P.).—A gigantic international traffic in opium and other drugs on a scale never before attempted has been discovered as the result of the arrest in France of an officer in the mercantile marine who is said to be the brain behind the organization.

Bourges, in the south of France, is believed to be the headquarters of the gang. The arrested seaman arranged with agents not only to over France but in England, Germany, Belgium and other countries for the handling of huge supplies of opium and other drugs he had been receiving from a secret source in the East.

SMALL PROPORTION
After questioning the officer implicated the Bourges examining magistrate authorized the arrest of fourteen other individuals, including two Englishmen and an Englishwoman for whom the police are searching in the underworld of France. This number represents only a very small proportion of the persons implicated in the affair.

Names and addresses of agents operating in Britain, Germany and Belgium have been obtained and will be furnished to the police of those countries who are being asked to assist the French Surete Generale in probing the affair thoroughly.

The opium is carried by air, sea or land by means of specially constructed trunks and suitcases provided with secret compartments. An army of couriers, including many women, are stated to be employed by the organization.

IN WOMEN'S CLOTHES
Some of the women couriers use for smuggling specially prepared clothes, where the drugs are hidden in the lining. Detection is next to impossible unless the customs officers or detectives have been warned specially of the activity of these women and order a special investigation by women searchers at the various customs offices.

The quantity of opium already seized is considerable. The magnitude of the traffic can be deduced from the fact that the banking account traced in Paris alone for the use of the organization, runs into many thousands of pounds.

Taxicab Strike In Montreal Ends
MONTREAL, Aug. 12 (C.P.).—The familiar call of "Taxi, sir?" resounded through Montreal streets last night for the first time since last Friday.

The strike came to a stop when officials and 1,500 drivers of the Diamond Taxicab Association reached a temporary agreement this afternoon.

How It Started
By JEAN NEWTON

AS INNOCENT AS A BARE UNBORN
It is said testimony to man's recognition from earliest times of what Shelley branded "the contagion of the world's slow stain" that of all the stages of our passage through life, childhood and infancy only have ever been paired with innocence.

So we have heard and read much of and literature is replete with references to "the white souls of little children" which, alas, are doomed to discoloration as they get on in years.

Typical of man's expression of this cynical attitude is the phrase, as innocent as a babe unborn, which has been popular in the English language for over three and a quarter centuries.

We have it from the book "Family of Love" by Middleton, published in 1608.

MONEY'S WORTH
Wife (at 2 a.m.)—Henry, don't tell me you've come home intoxicated. Husband—Well, m'dear—hic—if I haven't, I've been shundled.

press of Canada was at Rithet Piers from the Orient yesterday morning. Captain Hosken passed away at Vancouver on Monday while on shore leave.

A passenger list of 400, nearly 100 left the liner here. Interesting persons aboard included Lady Woods, Miss Edith Pictou-Turverville, O.B.E., C. A. Wallace, O.B.E., and John Neff, members of the British Government. Mrs. T. H. Hosken, en route to Hongkong, en route to London to report.

Mrs. Robert H. Davis, wife of the famous New York Sun columnist, was returning from a visit to Honolulu. Lieutenant-Colonel J. Ramsay Tainsh, general manager of Iraq Airways, was en route to London with Mrs. Tainsh. Lady Metcalfe were on their way to London after a tour of the world. Hamilton Holmes, British Consul-General at Shanghai, was en route to London with Mrs. Holmes. Lee Yuan Kai and Ming Ching Woon, Shanghai Government officials, were en route to the United States to study military affairs for two years before proceeding to Europe. Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell was returning from conducting his third tour party to China and Japan.

RAPID PROGRESS
Commenting upon the rapid industrialization of Japan, Dr. Sipprell believed it due to the growing needs of a rapidly increasing population. Although standards of living of the poorer classes were low, there was no unemployment problem, he said.

While the growth and manufacture of silk, tea and rice gave employment to the majority of residents, nearly all industries common to western nations showed remarkable progress, Dr. Sipprell stated. Although there were still irritating delays in the landing of passengers from foreign shores, Dr. Sipprell declared the Japanese were most anxious to develop tourist traffic. Once a person was ashore, the way to travel was open, he said.

Dr. Sipprell contrasted the dirt, poverty, disorder and confusion in parts of China with the cleanliness, order, system and discipline of Japan. Even though Japan seemed bent on pushing into China, a tourist saw little evidence of military activity in Japan, Dr. Sipprell declared.

ITALY WINS GOLD MEDAL FOR RACE
Germany and Norway Tied in Eight-Metre Class Olympic Regatta Off Kiel

Striking Ship's Crew Is Rounded
Up in Singapore

SINGAPORE, Aug. 12 (U.P.)—The Dollar liner President Hayes, with hundreds of tourists aboard, sailed late today after being held in the harbor for almost three days by striking crew members.

Twenty-six strikers who refused to leave the city, where they had gone in search of food, were rounded up by police and taken to the station.

The strike began after an order had been demoted to fireman and the captain refused to furnish meals to those who joined the walkout.

Norway must allow for the silver and bronze medals.

The committee reached the decision after studying photographs of the finish taken from a capital balloon. The photo showed Italy's bow in front, with Germany and Norway in a dead heat for runner-up honors.

Award of the gold medal in the six-metre class was made to Great Britain last night.

RUSSIANS REST

Levanovsky and Levenchenko Await Favorable Weather To Leave Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 12 (U.P.)—Two noted Russian flyers poised near here today awaiting favorable weather conditions before taking off on another leg of their 10,000-mile flight to seek an air trade route from the United States to Moscow.

The flyers, Sigismund Levanovsky and Victor Levenchenko, arrived from Juneau yesterday afternoon and alighted on nearby Harding Lake.

The pair, on a leisurely scientific journey, were led by Mayor E. B. Collins and a large delegation of citizens, including Alaska's most noted pilot, Joe Crosson, who flew the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post South from Barrow a year ago.

Crosson went out in a light pontooned plane to plot the Russian's high speed plane to the lake.

The flyers made the Juneau-Fairbanks hop of about 600 miles in three hours, four minutes. Their next contemplated leg will be Nome, 400 miles westward on the Bering Sea. From there they will fly to Siberia.

The vessel has a distinctive clipper bow and a cruiser stern, a wide squat funnel and a mast latticed at the lower end. Her equipment includes a radio direction finder, depth sounder, automatic steering device and a radio telephone. She is considered one of the most modern yachts in North American waters.

On her last voyage to Ketchikan, the supple operator talked to San Francisco on the powerful equipment. Captain Jordan recently brought the Virginia back from a 58,000-mile cruise of European waters.

Mr. Cord, who did not board the vessel, guests included Captain J. B. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ketchum, Seattle, Dr. and Mrs. A. Schullenger, New York, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mitchell, New York, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Manning and Miss Manning, of Chicago.

MARINE NOTES

To discharge a small parcel of San Francisco cargo, the Kingsley Navigation Company's freighter R. H. Kent arrived here in command of Capt. William Kent at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She departed one hour later.

King Brothers' shipping agents, report the Greek freighter Chios due at Odeon Point docks some time on Sunday. She will commence loading about 700,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom on Monday morning.

To take care of heavy traffic, Canadian Airways Limited, made two trips to Vancouver yesterday. The first was at 4:15 o'clock and the second at 6:15 o'clock.

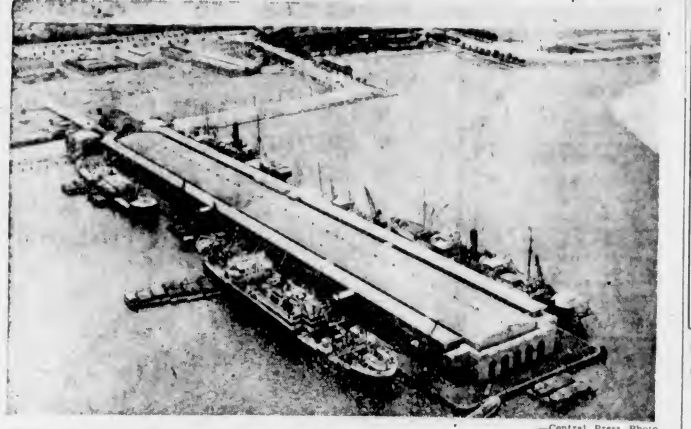

Carrying 700 residents of Port Moody, headed by Reeve Thomas Reid, the Union Steamship's S.S. Lady Alexandra was tied up at the dock yesterday afternoon. She was the ship's first visit to Victoria this year. Last summer she brought two excursions to port.

Bound for Vancouver, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha's Hye Maru, left at William Head Quarantine Station on Saturday morning at 1 o'clock, according to H. E. Douglas, the vessel's captain. She carried thirty-first and first class passengers, thirty-nine steerage, 576 packages of silk and 1,310 tons of overland cargo.

E. E. Nelson, passenger traffic manager for the Northern Pacific Railway, at St. Paul, Minn. is expected here with Mrs. Nelson and their daughter on Friday afternoon. They will be guests of A. C. Stickley, local Northern Pacific agent.

British Vessel's Crew Has Task to Repel Stowaways

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12 (U.P.)—S.S. Telescopio de Larraga, British freighter under charter to Canadian Transport Company to load for London and Southampton, is berthed at the Fraser River elevator.

Ship's officers said during their berthing in various ports on the east coast of South America, it was almost necessary to rig up oldstyle boarding nettings and man them to keep the vessel free of stowaways, so crowded are the ports with unemployed men desirous of transportation to other parts of the world.

SOUND SALMON RUN EXPECTED

Major A. J. Motherwell States Fish Will Go South—Quantity Unknown

VANCOUVER, Aug. 12 (U.P.)—The sockeye salmon today was defended against charges of capriciousness, while others stuck to their declaration that the fish had turned north and did not know where he was going.

The argument started with a run of sockeye into the Fraser River which yielded a clean-up to gill-net fishermen. They had not passed Southern Vancouver Island nor Puget Sound in the State of Washington and fishermen charged that the regular Puget Sound run traveled a thousand miles out of their way to go north of Vancouver Island, instead of short-cutting through the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

They were seen passing through Johnston Strait, which proved they came from the north, and the theory was offered that they could not decide whether the Skeena or the Fraser Rivers were their home waters.

Today, however, Major J. A. Motherwell, chief commissioner of fisheries here for the Dominion Government, stated a run still expected through Puget Sound, though no estimate could be made of its size.

Normally a few fish come down Johnston Strait by what is known as the all-Canadian route, and Major Motherwell said unusually good conditions in their spawning year, together with unusually good feeding conditions in the Pacific may have increased this small run to extraordinary proportions. They may not have been Puget Sound runners at all.

Mauna Kea in the Hawaiian Islands is believed to be the highest island mountain in the world. It has an altitude of 13,679 feet above sea level.

SHIP HAS HARD TIME TO BERTH

R.M.S. Niagara Delayed at Rithet Piers by Wind and Tide in Docking

Wind and tide conspired to delay R.M.S. Niagara yesterday afternoon on her way to Rithet Piers from Vancouver en route to Honolulu and the Antipodes in command of Captain W. Martin. At one time the 525-foot vessel swung broadside to the end of the dock. Her starboard bow anchor had to be dropped before she was warped in at 5:25 o'clock. She departed at 6:45 o'clock.

Before the vessel left Vancouver, the Seaford Highlanders Pipe Band gave a concert for the crew in appreciation for presentation of a wreath of Australian flowers in memory of Canadian soldiers lost in the Great War.

The ship carried 250 passengers in all classes and a large cargo of canned salmon, paper, lumber and automobiles. She took on passengers, 100 bags of mail and sixty tons of paper and newspaper here.

THE RETURN OF JOAN

by JOSEPH McCORD

CHAPTER I

Joan Kendall and two little sand-pipers had the strip of beach to themselves.

As each incoming wave spent itself in a circling spread of wash on the hard-packed sand, the sand-pipers' twinkling legs carried them scurrying along the moving margin of brine, their long bills darting after the minute reserves reserved for the eyes of sandpipers.

The hunters were quite too busy to display any concern whatever for the girl whose motionless figure lay but a little above the reach of the water.

Joan's dark eyes stared from under their level brows at the unending restlessness of the sea. There was a hint of moodiness in their brown depths, a pensiveness reflected in the slightly parted lips. She reclined on her side, head supported against her palm.

A scanty swimming suit of Nile green revealed intimate contours of a body boyish in its slenderness. The graceful legs were curled until the heels of two small sandals very nearly touched the bare flesh of the girl's rounded thighs. Her skin was olive-tinted, a soft shade that seemed little, if any, induced by exposure to the sun. Joan's thick brown hair, freed from the rubber cap she held loosely in the fingers of one hand, was pushed carelessly off her forehead. Ruffled by the steady wind, it glinted warmly at the sun's touch.

Before her, endless ranks of white-crested waves marched shoreward with muffled plunging, only to retreat in foamy confusion and reform their serried lines. The near waters were dull green, blending into a vast expanse of blue and broken with whitecaps as far as the eye could see. Well out, the hull of a lone fishing craft was being constantly lost to view where it wallowed among the waves. Of passing ships there was no sign. Not even the faint amusee of a steamer's smoke against the sky.

A sweeping curve of greyish strand, backgrounded by high dunes that sprouted patches of coarse vegetation, hid the nearest habitation from Joan's present retreat. It was a house overlooking the water a quarter of a mile to the north, separated by an almost-like distance beyond from the sprawling cluster of cottages, shops and amusement devices known as Waples Beach.

The isolated building was Layland Cottage. It also was Joan Kendall's home, although she rarely thought of it by that name. Not now.

Layland Cottage was a squat, shingle-covered structure, whose roof and walls had weathered to an unobtrusive grey, the result of long exposure to sun and wind. But a seasonal application of white paint at the hands of its owner, Mrs. Kendall, gave pleasing freshness to window frames and the posts of a porch that crossed the front of the house.

The sandpipers took wing. "Hello, Miss Kendall." "Hello, Mr. Deeds McCune." A sudden flicker of amusement showed in the dark eyes, as the girl added the name to her mild greeting.

Without asking permission, the newcomer stepped directly over Joan.

"I wanted to take a hike first, up the shore . . . or down, whichever it is. I was a little behind on my smoking and thinking. You know, I can't get much satisfaction out of a cigarette when I'm in the water." He produced a pack from the pocket of his belt. "About one

"I was afraid it was something like that. What does it mean?" "Model maker, to you. Buildings mostly . . . for window ads. That sort of thing. Maybe you've seen them. Interior lighting effects, boxwood hedges cut out of bath sponge and sprayed with green paint, palm fronds of chicken feathers. Sort of high-class toys.

"It sounds interesting."

"Fairly. I just finished an elaborate layout not long ago and my eyes with it . . . working under electric light like a fool. That's why I'm going around in dark clothes. Not a disguise. And it's why I'm posing as a vacationist."

"Oh. How did you happen to find this spot? I'm not looking for testimonials . . . the register says it's New York."

"Just one of those things. A friend told me about Waples Beach. Seems his family used to go there. I recommended it as being quiet. And cheap. It didn't make such a hit with me. The second day, I happened to walk past your place and here I am. I hope you approve."

"The one reason my dad keeps Layland."

"Sure. I was forgetting we had just started being friends. You'll think up a better one. I think it would help if you'd supplement some of the scanty information I've gleaned about you. For instance, you haven't been here very long. Rumor hath it that you're vacationing awhile."

"Rumor hath been kind." Joan's tone was a trifle grim as she looked out to sea. "Perhaps you've heard about the depression in your travels."

"You've no idea. I've come so near being the Forgotten Boondoggler it's no fun. I was on the level about my eyes. But it's a general excuse for idling. Look between friends, models are something the public has done its damnest to get along without . . . and theatre sets. I began my artistic career that way. Do you mind telling me what you do—when you are doing it?"

"My outstanding job was with a Philadelphia insurance concern—statistical stuff. I survived a lot of house-cleanings and cuts. But they got to me. It must be that my talents run to figures, because I couldn't connect with anything else that lasted. I decided to drop down here for a while and think it over. I didn't have much choice. I make myself useful—occasionally."

"Not letting it get you, are you?" "Of course not. What's the use?" McCune squinted thoughtfully at Joan's profile.

"And what happened to the man?" "I don't know, casually."

"The one who makes you—detached like?" "They're both quite well, thank you."

"I see. You're going to hold out on me. But you'll weaken."

"I'm sure of it." Joan returned with an amused smile. "So I'll go up to before I commit any more indiscretions." She rose to her feet with a graceful spring.

"What do you mean more?" "Such as complimenting you on your powers of observation."

"Were even. Come for a swim with me . . . just a little one. Then I'll let you go home alone. Maybe."

"All right," was the indifferent answer. "A little one."

Joan tugged on her cap and tucked her hair under its edge, working her sandals from her feet at the same time. McCune stared up at her admiringly, until she started for the water. Then he hurriedly divested himself of his own foot coverings and strode after her.

"Why doesn't one ever see any ships off this place?" he inquired, as he appropriated Joan's nearest hand and led her into the swirling wash of an incoming comb.

"Their course lies out too far. Let go. I'm going under this next one."

"For a little time they swim or floated beyond the line of breakers, or allowed themselves to be carried in on the crests to be buffeted about in the foamy rush of water."

"I've had enough," Joan decided pantingly. "Stay in, if you like."

"What's the use?" Deeds cleared his nose and eyes of brine. "I was all set to rescue you—done everything but drag you under and hold you. But you were born with a caul."

"Don't remember."

Joan sat down in the sand to regain her breath and Deeds flung himself nearby.

"That was swell," he declared. "We're getting along famously with that friend stuff—aren't we?"

and extended almost the length of one side.

Joan's reverie was interrupted by a sound that penetrated the monotonous wash of the surf, the scuffling ring of sand under a rubber-shod foot. Her brown head turned quickly at the sight of a tall figure looming above her.

and seated himself cross-legged in the sand.

"Didn't mean to," he remarked affably, as she dislodged a sprinkling of sand from her cheek with the corner of the rubber cap. "I was trying to get my back to the sun. McCune was removing a pair of dark glasses as he spoke."

"It's all right."

Joan's gaze reverted to the water. The intruder upon her solitude was a lean young man, clad in nothing more than a pair of trunks and shabby sneakers. His close-cropped hair, which betrayed a tendency to curl tightly, was auburn.

The blinking eyes were much the color of Joan's own. They were quizzical, friendly eyes that matched the ready smile of the wide mouth.

The sun was not kind to Mr. McCune. His torso was burned to a painful redness, with sign of recent blistering. Freckles marked his face and neck, the amber peppering extending down over muscular shoulders and arms.

"How's the water?" was his opening bid for conversation.

"Nice."

"And cold?"

"Not particularly. Arent you trying it?"

more, and I'll be caught up again. Have one?"

"No thank you."

"If you're going in again, I'd like to join you."

"I don't think I should . . . almost dry now. I was about to dress. The sun will be doing things to me."

"You should worry." McCune squinted enviously at her unblemished flesh. "It's a crime the way I get bronzed at five. I'm over the worst."

Joan made no response. Her companion watched her speculatively, then demanded:

"What's so funny about my name? I notice you get a kick out of saying it."

The brown eyes that looked up suddenly made no attempt to conceal their amusement. Joan's white teeth flashed a sunny smile.

"It's not funny," she contradicted. "It's rather impressive. I like to say it. Deeds McCune."

She declaimed the two words musically.

"I get it. Sort of like . . . like the 'Light Brigade.' The way you say it."

"Or toast me!"

"I guess it does sound pretty dumb." McCune admitted. "Deeds is a family name . . . my mother's. She was in it. He blew a bubble of smoke into the wind and watched it through half-closed eyes. "I'm glad if it sort of intrigues you, though."

"What was?" was Joan's mild encouragement.

"Intriguing. I've been studying you every time I had a chance. You're here, and you're not here. If you know what I mean."

"There's something about you always that's . . . detached. That's about as near as I can come to it."

"You sound as though I were coming apart. Am I so odd?"

"No hardly." He flipped away his ash impatiently. "It's just that I don't know how to say it. What I mean is . . . well, your being out here alone is part of it. I was watching you. You never moved until I walked on you. Just lay staring at the water. I had a feeling you didn't know it was there."

"You are observing. I did see it, though."

Deeds raised his knees to the level of his chin and folded his bare arms across them. Sudden soberness was in his face and voice.

"Stop me if I'm out of bounds. But I've a feeling that I'd like to be friends. Joan Kendall. You have my attention of that sort."

I can't seem to think of any good reason why we shouldn't be friends. Deeds McCune. What do we do?"

"Talk."

"That should be easy."

"Begin."

"Meaning I'm to talk about me?"

That's one of the things I do best. And, while we're on the matter of names, I'm Mac. Your name is Joan. I've always wanted to know a Joan."

The owner of the name smiled slightly. She said nothing.

"And now to fill in the background with a few deft strokes of my broom." McCune resumed. "Age unpleasantly near to the third decade. Mailing address furnished on request. Occupation, a dramatist. At the moment."

Joan looked at him. Her brow puckered in a puzzled frown.

NOVEL COMEDY IS ON ATLAS SCREEN

Gene Raymond Shows How to Gain Success Through Swapping in "Love on a Bet"

Swapping, an ancient custom probably pursued by our ancestors, is a source of vast cinema amusement in Gene Raymond's new romantic adventure comedy, "Love on a Bet," opening today at the Atlas Theatre.

The ancient pastime enables the hero to bring to a successful termination a whirlwind courtship of Wendy Barrie against all but impossible odds.

He starts his romantic pursuit with nothing but a suit of underwear. An odd choice earns him a few jars of preserves which develop into a gun. The gun becomes a cow, the cow a suit of clothes. A final extraordinary coup brings him success in an astounding wager and persuades the girl to trade her opbion on a stuffed-shirt millionaire for himself.

Helen Broderick, "Top Hat" comedienne; William Collier, Sr., Wallace Morgan and Eddie Gribble are also prominently cast. RKO Radio produced "Love on a Bet."

DOMINION A stirring vivid drama theatre has come out of Hollywood yesterday at the Dominion Theatre, an audience that breathless while the powerful classic by Dostoevsky, "Crime and Punishment," came to life on the screen.

Several forces of superior quality are responsible. Edward Arnold, who sprang into prominence only a short time ago and proved himself a worthy star indeed in "Diamond Jim," Peter Lorre, the fine continental star who was first discovered by American fans in "M," a German production, Josef Von Sternberg, the director, who has often and correctly been called a genius.

CAPITOL W. C. Fields pompous comedian of the top-heavy vocabulary, and master of the raised-eyebrow deadpan, returns to the screen in a burst of glory in "Poppy," a yarn of carnival days, now at the Capitol Theatre. The film marks Fields' triumph over his "villainous sacrilegious" injury and of which he has been making serious lines for the star. "Poppy," loaded with all the color of the carnival and cut to suit the inimitable talents of the best-loved comedian, is a screen version of the stage success of many years back in which Fields made an immediate hit.

Columbia Theatre Offers Spy Story

Framed against the background of international intrigue, "Federal Agent," new starring of Bill Boyd, comes to the Columbia Theatre today for three days.

Drama, thrills and romance are said to be literally packed into this exciting story of international spies, with Boyd portraying a government agent that is without doubt one of his outstanding performances.

Concerning the efforts of several world powers to obtain the secrets of a super-explosive invented by an American scientist, the story is marked by gripping drama, stirring adventure and sufficient romance to make an interesting love story.

Bill Boyd has the part of a G-man whose partner has been slain by the leader of the international spy ring, and who takes the trail to wipe out the foreign menace and avenge his partner's death.

PIERROTS TO APPEAR ON SHOW BOAT FRIDAY

The second series of entertainments by the Royal English Show Boat Pierrots, which opens on Friday night, is to be made a sort of a performance, according to T. H. Ellick, general secretary of the Tourist Trade Association, which runs the Show Boat as a community enterprise.

Ernie Impett, Victoria's own comedian, will lead a greatly augmented company in a popular performance bristling with comedy, untidiness and carefree entertainment.

Mr. Ellick has taken over as from this week the management of week-end productions for this second series, assisted by Ernie Impett for comedy, Frank Tupman for chorus work, Harold Cotton for special lighting and scenic effects, Mrs. Florence Ellick for costumes, Frank Bickford for front of house management, and Jack Thornburn for stage properties.

This combination insures bigger and better stage productions each Friday than have been possible during the earlier part of the season.

REV. E. J. SPRINGETT WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

SENIORS CHAMPION ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINAL ROUND

British Columbians Put On Good Scores At Connaught Ranges

Sergeant J. Kier, Vancouver, Second in Macdonald Brier Match—Victorians in Prize Money— Rifleman Ewing Makes Double Possible

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, SOUTH MARCH, Ont., Aug. 12.—Undisturbed by blistering sun-rays, Lieutenant H. W. Steeves, a sharpshooter of Moncton, N.S., out-shot Canada's best to win the Life Members' Match here today at the annual meeting of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

Most marksmen were linked by the heat penetrating their shooting-jackets, but the Maritime rifleman's aim did not waver from the bullseye as he popped on ten shots at 1,000 yards, the toughest range, and stood alone with a possible 50.

Lieutenant Steeves' winning effort was rewarded with a silver medal and $20 prize money.

Captain A. B. Coulter, of Ottawa, and Lieutenant P. Hooper, of Charlottetown, finished in a tie for second place, carding 49, one short of possible.

Rifleman W. Ewing, twenty-one-year-old Montreal marksman, won his second match of the meet. Easily he spanked ten rounds into the black at 300 yards and repeated at 600 for a possible century, in the Macdonald Brier. He was awarded $100 and a silver medal.

Victoria Rifles of Montreal team of four were easy winners of the Macdonald Brier Match, compiling 385 points. Equally, Garrison Rifle Association was fourth with 381.

BAYS CAPTURE TROPHY MATCH

Defeat Victoria, 163 to 177, in Berger Cup Cricket At Beacon Hill

Hudson's Bay mid-week cricketers gained their initial triumph of the season in the Berger Cup series yesterday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park, when they defeated Victoria, 163 to 177.

Battling first, the Bays had 100 runs on the board in the first hour for the fall of but three wickets. Frank Tyrrell fell at 127 and the remaining wickets fell cheaply. Included in Tyrrell's forty-seven were nine fours.

Victoria lost Appleton in the second over, but Ellis played a splendid innings of 60, and although he did not get much support, the final total reached 177 runs. There were seven fours in Ellis' fine effort.

Appleton and Jeanneret had the best bowling analysis for Victoria, and N. Tyrrell and Baker for the Hudson's Bay.

The scores:

BOTH IN TROUBLE:
A man went to his doctor for an examination and the doctor told him he had diabetes.
"I can't have it," he protested.
"I'm only forty-one years for the age has nothing to do with it," persisted the doctor. "You have diabetes."
Stunned by the news, the patient went home on a street car muttering hysterically to himself.
"To think! I got diabetes at 41!"
He kept saying this over and over until a fellow passenger protested.
"What are you kicking about," he demanded. "I got Amalgamated Railway at 68!"

Although it was used by vessels as early as 1914, the Panama Canal was not declared opened officially until July 12, 1920. Traffic in early years was hampered by slides.

CANADIAN XI IS DEFEATED

Touring Cricketers Suffer First Reverse of Old Country Invasion

LONDON, Aug. 12. — Their thirteenth game in England proved an unlucky one for Hon. R. C. Matthews' Canadian cricketers. After maintaining an unbeaten record since they arrived in England early in July, the Dominion's representatives were defeated by Grasshoppers, a strong amateur club, by 57 runs at the Oval today. The English team mustered 203 runs to which the Canadians replied with 145.

While their colors were lowered the Canadians put up a good battle against an eleven that included D. R. Jardine, former English captain; J. C. Christopherson, Kent, and several other prominent cricketers. With two matches remaining before they return to Canada, the tourists have won seven, lost one and drawn five.

Today's game was marked by a fine bowling feat by Lloyd Percival, of the Toronto Rowdale club, who is noted more for his batting and fielding than bowling. Sending down slow spinners, Percival captured six of the English team's wickets for 39 runs. Ted Carlisle and "Derby" Loney, usually very effective on the attack were not successful today.

BRIILLANT FIELDING: The Canadians left nothing to be desired in the matter of fielding. The only extras allowed were six points. Jardine, who made 30 runs, was dismissed through a wonderful catch by Loney, fielding in the slips.

Christopherson led Grasshoppers' batsmen with 36, and M. H. Bell, equalled Jardine's score. Bowling honors went to B. B. Waddy who dismissed six Canadians for 31 runs.

Clarke Bell, Toronto, and Walter Scott, Vancouver, opened their shoulders to the home team's attack after several wickets had gone down with only a few runs obtained. Each player scored 30. The former obtained twenty-four of his runs with six hits to the boundary.

Tomorrow Mr. Matthews' team plays Royal Engineers in a one-day match at Chatham. Saturday the Canadians will be guests at the Oval when England and India start the third and final test match.

The concluding game of the tour starts Monday at Chatham, when Incegnu will send a strong team against the visitors.

Rosalind Wins

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 12. — Rosalind, a daughter of Scotland, owned by twenty-one-year-old Gibson White, of Lexington, Ky., today won the eleven-hundred-dollar, taking the second and final heat in 2:02 1/4 after capturing the first mile in 2:02 3/4 before a crowd of 45,000 at Good Time Park.

The American's time of 6:00 1/2 compared with the Olympic standard of 6:03 1/2 and the course mark of 6:09.

Paced by Art Chapman and Doug Peden, the Canadian basketball team went into the semi-finals by whipping Uruguay, 43 to 21, in a soft assignment. Chapman had the accurate flips for twelve points and Peden gathered eleven.

The United States, favored to meet the Maple Leaf bearers in the final, kept pace by overwhelming the Philippines, 56-23.

The ever-dangerous American team took the day's swimming honors. Jack Medica, the "Seattle seal," captured the 400-metre free style medal by out-crawling Japan's Shunpei Uto in the new Olympic time of 4:45.

Then Margie Gestring, a freestyle Detroit lass of thirteen, paced a one, two, three sweep in the springboard diving event.

Thelma Bouchner, of Toronto, and Lynda Adams, of Vancouver, far below the diving form they have flashed in Canadian pools, were left in the rack.

CANADIANS QUALIFY: However, a Canadian relay team composed of Phyllis Dewar, Mrs. Irene Pirie Milton, Marjorie Stone and Mary McConkey, stroked into the final for the 400-metre championship by finishing third in their trial.

Goodie Kerr, member of a well-known Windsor family of swimmers, came through another preliminary in second place and gained the semi-finals of the 100-metre backstroke event.

Canadian Hoopsters Beat Uruguay To Gain Semi-Final Bracket

BERLIN, Aug. 12. — Canada's speedy basketballers gained the semi-final round of the Olympic basketball competition by thumping Uruguay, 41-21, today. It was their fourth straight win and came after the United States had gained a similar bracket by downing the Philippines, 56-23.

The Windsor-British Columbia team had an easy time eliminating Uruguay. The Canadians scored pretty much as they pleased.

Art Chapman, Victoria sharpshooter, set the pace with an even dozen points. Chapman has played in three of Canada's four starts and piled up a total of twenty-nine points.

The South Americans had no chance with Bernasconi the only steady shooter in the squad.
Other results: United States 56, Philippines 23, Mexico 34, Italy 17, Poland won by forfeit from Peru.

Indian Trundler Bowls Wally Hammond

After playing indifferently against many Old Country elevens during the exhibition tour which preceded their test match programme, the All-India cricket team showed a surprising reversal of form in the big tests, and gave England's eleven hard competition. Here is the great Wally Hammond, one of England's premier bats, clean bowled by Nayudu, of the visitors, during the match at Old Trafford, Manchester.

Before yielding his wicket, the veteran Hammond had put together a sparkling innings.

American Stars Capture Olympic Aquatic Titles

Thirteen-Year-Old Margie Gestring Is Diving Champion—Seattle's Jack Medica Wins 400-Metre Swim—Campbell in Semi-Final

By ELMER DULMAOE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.
BERLIN, Aug. 12. — Flashing the powerful over-sweep that made him a North American swimming great, "Chuck" Campbell, of Toronto, today gained a semi-final berth in the hot fight for the Olympic single sculls after Hamilton Leaders had been beaten off in its first challenge for the crew crown.

However, the Canadian Huskies have another chance tomorrow. Campbell finished with one of his characteristic bursts of sprint speed to beat Cecil Pearce, Australian nephew of the peerless Bobby, in a consolation heat. Leaders, rowing an outside lane raked by a gusty wind, finished third behind the eight-man crews of Hungary and Italy.

HUSKIES WIN: However, the centre of the regatta stage was taken by the brawny United States defenders of the eight-oared title, a University of Washington boat full of heart and muscle that hit a dazzling clip in the last 100 metres to down a gallant English challenge and upset the course and Olympic records.

The American's time of 6:00 1/2 compared with the Olympic standard of 6:03 1/2 and the course mark of 6:09.

Paced by Art Chapman and Doug Peden, the Canadian basketball team went into the semi-finals by whipping Uruguay, 43 to 21, in a soft assignment. Chapman had the accurate flips for twelve points and Peden gathered eleven.

The United States, favored to meet the Maple Leaf bearers in the final, kept pace by overwhelming the Philippines, 56-23.

The ever-dangerous American team took the day's swimming honors. Jack Medica, the "Seattle seal," captured the 400-metre free style medal by out-crawling Japan's Shunpei Uto in the new Olympic time of 4:45.

Then Margie Gestring, a freestyle Detroit lass of thirteen, paced a one, two, three sweep in the springboard diving event.

Thelma Bouchner, of Toronto, and Lynda Adams, of Vancouver, far below the diving form they have flashed in Canadian pools, were left in the rack.

CANADIANS QUALIFY: However, a Canadian relay team composed of Phyllis Dewar, Mrs. Irene Pirie Milton, Marjorie Stone and Mary McConkey, stroked into the final for the 400-metre championship by finishing third in their trial.

Goodie Kerr, member of a well-known Windsor family of swimmers, came through another preliminary in second place and gained the semi-finals of the 100-metre backstroke event.

Canadian Hoopsters Beat Uruguay To Gain Semi-Final Bracket

BERLIN, Aug. 12. — Canada's speedy basketballers gained the semi-final round of the Olympic basketball competition by thumping Uruguay, 41-21, today. It was their fourth straight win and came after the United States had gained a similar bracket by downing the Philippines, 56-23.

The Windsor-British Columbia team had an easy time eliminating Uruguay. The Canadians scored pretty much as they pleased.

Art Chapman, Victoria sharpshooter, set the pace with an even dozen points. Chapman has played in three of Canada's four starts and piled up a total of twenty-nine points.

The South Americans had no chance with Bernasconi the only steady shooter in the squad.
Other results: United States 56, Philippines 23, Mexico 34, Italy 17, Poland won by forfeit from Peru.

VICTORIAN DEFEATS TACOMA VETERAN IN GREAT MATCH, ONE UP

Minister of Finance Gains Decision on Final Green After One of Closest Battles of Tournament at Colwood Course—Blanchard, Ballinger And Dempsey Still in the Running

Coming from behind with that old Irish spirit and confidence Hon. John Hart, the Minister of Finance, and the defending champion, stayed in the running for the grand championship of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament yesterday, at the Royal Colwood course by eliminating G. H. Raleigh, Tacoma, on the final green after one of the best tussles in the meet to date.

The popular politician will meet Percy Blanchard, Portland, in today's semi-final round.

Blanchard, who had the distinction of pushing the medalist, J. W. "Joe" Ruggles, Victoria, into the first flight, from which he faded from the picture yesterday, came through with a fine triumph over Captain George Wilder, Victoria, 3 and 2. Wilder was entirely off his game, but that does not take credit from his opponent, who played steady golf from tee to green the entire route. Jack Ballinger, Seattle's runner-up of last year, ousted Paul C. Murphy, Portland, 4 and 3, while J. Jack Dempsey, Tacoma, had the edge all the way to win from E. L. Mann, Wenatchee, 5 and 4.

CHAMPION ADVANCES: John Hart fought a great battle with Raleigh and if it wasn't for his lightning Irish spirit the champion would have fallen by the wayside. Hart reached the halfway distance one down and then slipped enough to let Raleigh be two up at the thirteenth. The titleholder buckled down to business from then on and won the next three holes in succession. Although he three-putted the half dozen seventeenth he saved a half and then halved the final hole to gain the decision. Mr. Hart found his putter misbehaving in bad style and had the misfortune to three-putt five greens against Raleigh.

Blanchard played his usual steady game and proved too strong for Captain Wilder from the start. Wilder wandered from the fairway continuously and it didn't do him any good as far as victory was concerned. He found trouble time and time again while Blanchard was straight down the middle and therefore the Victorian admitted defeat on the sixteenth green, 3 and 2. Ballinger shot winning golf all the way against Paul Murphy, one of Portland's strong contenders. He was in the lead at the ninth and then closed out the match at the fifteenth green with another of his pars.

TACOMA VETERAN WINS: Dempsey was hitting them with more confidence than ever to eliminate E. L. Mann, the lone entry from Wenatchee. The Tacoma veteran followed the card most of the way and as a result disposed of Mann at the fourteenth. Dempsey meets Ballinger, the Seattle favorite, in today's semi and another interesting match is expected.

In the first flight of the grand championship T. H. "Tom" Leeming, of Victoria, got the thrill of his golfing career by coming through with a 3 and 1 victory over R. E. Thatcher, Seattle, 2 and 1.

Mystery Man of the Yanks

VERNON "LEFTY" GOMEZ
The experts in the big league are all asking the same question: "What's the matter with Gomez?" In the early part of the season he was showing signs of returning to the form of old. He won three of his first four starts for New York Yankees and then started to slip. Out of his twenty starts, he has only been able to finish eight games. In his recent games he has shown signs of the former Gomez brilliance. Although he has failed to finish a significant number of his games he will still take his regular turn on the mound.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX MORRISON

PROPER CHIN POINTING MUST IMPROVE SWING

B. F. O'Brien writes: "I have followed your instructions in our local newspaper for three years, especially keeping my chin pointed back to the ball. In that time I have lowered my score about twenty strokes."

This spring I developed a slice in my worst woods on 11. I consulted a local pro. He told me that keeping my chin pointed back of the ball makes the foreman of the neck and right shoulder muscles thereby cutting down the speed of the club-head.

Will you kindly let me know if this is so?

O'Brien's experience is not very anomalous. When you try to keep your chin back there is a clash between the right side and the chin. This clash regularizes on the neck and shoulder muscles.

The fact that such a clash occurs should be the best evidence of need for the proper chin pointing because the right side must be lifted before you can get the best results in any swing.

Being easier and the clash will be avoided and you'll enjoy greater ease with the clubhead.

BRUINS TAKE BALL LAURELS

Defeat Esquimaalt Meat Market, 1-0, in Play-Off—Meet Glows Tonight

Pushing across a lone marker in the second inning for the only score of the game, the Bruins, last night, took out a 1-0 victory over the Esquimaalt Meat Market nine, in the deciding game of the Lower Island "B" championship softball play-downs.

Played at Bullen Park, the fixture developed into a pitching duel with Harold Turner, fuelmen's hurler, besting Beech, youthful Bruins pitcher, in a great battle. Bruins collected five hits from Beech, one more than the boys from the dockyard village garnered from Turner.

PLAY GLAWS TONIGHT
Tonight at the Royal Athletic Park the Bruins will open their bid for the city championship when they stack up against the Silent Glows. The fixture, the first of the two-out-of-three series, will commence at 6:15 o'clock.

PLAY TO TIE
Playing at Victoria West Park, Colbert's Grocery and the Victoria Longshoremen battled to a 7-7 tie in a Peden Cup semi-final fixture. The game was called at the end of the ninth because of darkness.

COSTLIER MILDER TOBACCOS

THE TUTTS... By Crawford Young

Jane Dixon Says:

IF CONDITIONS IN HER HOME ARE AS DEPLORABLE AS THIS WIFE AND MOTHER PICTURES THEM, THEN IT WOULD SEEM TOO BAD THAT THE WHIPPING POST HAS BEEN ABOLISHED.

It would be fit punishment for the husband herein described. It might even be necessary for the son, unless he takes a sharp turn to the right and treats his mother with proper filial respect and consideration.

Dear Miss Dixon: I am going to give you the entire picture, so please tell me what to do.

I'm so imposed upon by husband and son.

They do all their planning together, such as taking trips, getting new cars, etc. They never consider me at all except as someone to do the hard work for them.

My husband allows our son the use of the car and gives him everything he asks for. Could it be he has bought the boy with this indulgence?

HUSBAND AND SON IGNORE HER

My son stays out all night whenever he pleases. They won't even let me touch the car to go places, their excuse being I might hurt myself. Miss Dixon, they never are afraid I'll hurt myself with hard work—washing, ironing, cooking, cleaning, mending, even doing all the repair work on the house—painting and carpentry. The doorsteps are worn out. It takes all my strength to lift them into place and nail and saw them so I won't have to crawl in and out of the house.

My son is nineteen, and was a fine, obedient child until five years ago. At that time my husband and the boy were invited to go fishing with his brother's family. They did not invite me. I was overlooked entirely. They do not like me, for no reason I can figure out.

The fishing party was made up of the brother and his wife, their daughter and her young man; her girl friend, invited for my son, and the sister of the brother's wife who was my husband's old sweetheart, and who is now a widow. She was for my husband, of course. The party was all coupled off.

I was sick the Sunday morning they left at three o'clock, and remained in the house alone. I felt as though my heart was being torn from my breast. I thought surely I would smother with grief. I'm so tired and so lonely.

WIFE DISCREDITED BY IN-LAWS

What is the best way to treat these meddlesome in-laws who go to my husband's shop and cause trouble by telling him untruths about me? Up to now I've said nothing, feeling such persons were beneath my notice. But every week-end the fishing trips continue. The expense is terrific for us. We need the money for repairs on our home and on the garage.

I used to tell my husband how much he and the boy hurt me. Now I am too tired to go through a scene as he talks very bad to me and tells me if I don't like things as they are to get out and go where I can do better.

I only want him to take an interest in our home. He works hard at his place of business, but is not a good manager. If I try to help, I'm "bossing and nagging." He had an affair with a terrible woman five years ago. The trouble broke my health, but I'm stronger now.

I'm not ordinary. I come from a nice family which treats others as it would be treated. I've tried to keep this trouble to myself for a long, long time. I took it to God in prayer. God has done so much for me and prayer has been the only thing that has kept me alive.

In all faith, what shall I do?—Distressed.

FATHER IS AN EVIL INFLUENCE

Answer. To deal effectively with such persons as you describe requires the greatest of fortitude, the utmost in determination. Have some member of your family, or a minister of a church, or a trusted friend talk with your son.

Any father who would encourage a son to be disrespectful and unkind to his mother is an evil influence in that son's life, and he should be forced to behave like a man and a normal parent.

If the in-laws are undermining your husband's regard for you and robbing you of the respect of your son, you have recourse to the courts which deal with alienation of affection.

I should not hesitate to let them know that unless they ceased their deprecations I would stand upon my legal rights.

The problem you present to me cannot be solved by pleas or tears. It demands action.

THE RETURN OF JOAN
 by JOSEPH McCORD

"Are you?"
 "Can't you tell? Sure we are. I've decided that I won't let you go in alone, after all. I'm in a gossip-mongering mood. I want to talk and ask questions. Will you help?"
 "I might—with the questions."
 "She's cagey. But mine are harmless. I haven't gotten beyond exchanging commonplaces with your guests, and I've been wanting to get that sort of catalogue—just for my own satisfaction. Do you mind?"
 "It's quite all right. You want to know about Claire Lindsay. Very clever lead. But you came to the right place. . . . we've known each other since pigstails and pinafores. I agree with you that she's charming and beautiful. And she's untamable . . . as far as I know. But you do have to find that out for yourself. Does that help?"
 "You've no idea. The dowager lady is her mother and, I take it, a widow for the second time. And Gene Gaston is her son and Miss Claire's half-brother. I haven't gotten very far with him. You can tell me all I know. About him, that is."
 "Sorry. I can't. Joan said it shortly. 'Until I came down, I hadn't seen Gene . . . for a long time.'"
 "That lines them up nicely. How about the brothers Elledge? I notice they both answer to doctor. How come?"
 "Medicine."
 "In practice?"
 "I don't believe so. . . . very much. Dr. Sloan . . . he's the older one. . . . is a sort of invalid. His brother takes care of him."
 "He looks husky enough. If he's the one I have in mind."
 "Nervous trouble. Broods . . . you'll notice it. I never saw either of them before, but my mother told me something about Dr. Sloan. He lost his wife and child a few years ago. They were on their addition when it burned. You remember."
 "Sure. That was tough."
 "Dr. John brought his brother down here for the summer to see what the quiet and fresh air would do for him. Mother thinks they're pretty well off. I don't know."
 "That seems funny, though."
 "What does?"
 "For a man to lose his family in a horror of that sort, then camp on the beach where he's never out of sight or sound of the ocean. You'd think he'd never want to look at the water again."
 "I've thought of that too. But it's all I know of the case. Who's next on your list?"
 "I'm through. The others all true to form. If Salina weren't such an ebony butter-ball, I'd inquire into her heart affairs. Man, but can she fry fish! Oh, yes. . . . I was going to ask something about the people stay here the year around?"
 "The last four winters. It's pretty bleak, I guess. But cheaper than moving back into town every year, so mother says."
 "McCune looked slowly up and down the length of beach.
 "Bleak is about right, he decided, reaching for a shoe and searching it for his cigarette and a match. It would be a good place to write a book or learn to hate oneself. Snook now? No? What does a person do when the hibernating season is on?"
 "I'm sure I don't know."
 "Maybe you'd be due to find out this winter." Deeds grinned impudently through a cloud of smoke.
 "Not a chance. I really must start back. . . . have to go to the beach after lunch."
 "I don't think I shall like you so well with your hair glued in snailshells. It's prettier the way it is."
 "Thanks. How did you guess?"
 "Easy enough. You have an ocean of your own in the front yard. I can't see you on a merry-go-round or having a tinsy-male. Simple deduction. . . . beauty parlor."
 "You're uncanny. Good-by. Joan made ready to leave. 'I did enjoy the swim.'"
 "So did I. And I think I'd better walk home with you." Deeds informed. "There may be something else I want to know."
 "Without offering consent or encouragement, Joan began walking briskly in the direction of the house. McCune retrieved his sneakers but did not walk to put them on. At the start, he walked a little behind the girl, accommodating his strides to her shorter steps. The sun was shining full in his face, but he carried the dark glasses in his hand. They were not far from Leland Cottage, when the man broke the silence to announce:
 "The two medicines."
 "Joan slowed her step and spoke in a low tone over her shoulder.
 "That's Dr. Sloan ahead."

NOTED WRITER VISITING CITY

Robert H. Davis is Here in Course of World Assignment for Newspaper

Robert H. Davis, known all over the world as "Bob" Davis, of The New York Sun, is in Victoria, accompanied by Mrs. Davis. The assignment which Mr. Davis has to cover is a very wide one as far as territory is concerned, but in the matter of material about which he shall direct himself, he is practically foolproof. There are few parts of the world that he has not been and from which he has not penned interesting views for the readers of The Sun.

In the course of his travels, Mr. Davis always is delighted to come to Victoria. Just back from the Orient, he told The Colonist yesterday that Victoria had a charm all its own and that there was something about this city and Vancouver Island that made one who had ever visited it wish to return.

WILL GO FISHING

He will enjoy an outing up the island with his old friend George I. Warren, commissioner of the Publicity Bureau, when some fishing will be done as a little pastime. But there is the daily grind always ahead of the visitor for his paper in the supplying of the column for which he is responsible and for which the readers of The New York Sun await the arrival of the paper.

When seen yesterday, Mr. Davis, after recalling some of his impressions gained on this last visit to the Orient, drifted to the wonderful colonizing ability of the British people. In his travels, no matter what the color of the people among whom he went, if the Union Jack was flying, Mr. Davis always was assured of respect for law and order.

DEALT EVEN JUSTICE

In this connection he recalled seeing a monocolored justice in the South Seas, surrounded by native "blacks," dispensing justice. It was an incongruous sight in many respects, but he was struck by the fact that irrespective of color or station, the representative of British justice meted out what was right in every instance. One could not help feeling a deep respect for the adherence to duty that was the representative and which made the rule of Britain justly honored throughout the world.

Getting nearer home, Mr. Davis expressed the opinion that when the trying time comes in the elections in the United States, there will be a heavy swing towards Governor Alfred M. Landon, of Kansas, Republican candidate for the Presidency, and he expects to see President Roosevelt receive a severe setback in the popular vote polled. He believes that a change is coming there.

"It's a beautiful day," Joan began uncertainly. "We have just been in for a swim. . . . you've met Mr. McCune, haven't you, Doctor?"
 "Yes, indeed. I had the pleasure yesterday. But I believe my brother was not down to dinner. Oh, Sloan"

Sloan Elledge turned slowly. His cool grey eyes traveled over Deeds McCune's exposed body.
 "Glad to know you, McCune," was his distant acknowledgment, indicating that he had heard Joan speak the name. "You're a fool to burn your skin in that fashion." He swung about and resumed his walk.

"You'll have to pardon the old chap," John Elledge told the young man, spreading out his pudgy fingers in a deprecating gesture. "He's not quite like himself at the moment. Suffering from a nervous breakdown . . . mental depression . . . insomnia. That sort of thing. I'm hoping that a few weeks of this salt air and sunshine will put him . . . right. You understand." His blinking eyes looked from Deeds to Joan, and back again.
 "Too bad," McCune ventured.
 "Isn't it? Brought on by shock. Wife and only child died under distressing circumstances. Drowned, in fact. All he had," Dr. John spoke jerkily, as if he had not fully recovered his breath. "Fortunately, I've never married. I can devote my entire time to him. It's what he needs. Company and . . . care."

"It's fortunate," Deeds agreed, for want of anything better to say. He found himself wondering why the stout little caretaker did not start after his charge, who already was lost to sight around the curving dunes. For some reason, it made him vaguely uneasy, and he was relieved to hear Joan suggest that she must be on her way. Deeds was about to follow, when Elledge laid a detaining hand on his bare arm.
 "Are you staying—at the cottage for a little time?" he wanted to know, glancing around as if he feared being overheard.

"I have no definite plans," McCune returned, slightly mystified.
 "I am sure I hope you will. It's Sloan . . . my brother. He needs diversion and . . . well, naturally company of women. You can understand. Our host is a well-meaning old chap, but . . . rather impossible. You must have noticed."

"There's young Gaston," Deeds suggested, without committing himself in the matter of Jere Kendall.

"Yes, there's Gaston. . . . Elledge's eyes turned blinking to the water. He puckered his soft mouth thoughtfully. "Yes, of course."

He looked at Deeds again. "You impress me as a cheerful, wide-awake young man. Are you engaged this afternoon?"

"Had nothing particular in mind."

"Good. Please come up to our rooms after lunch . . . say about two. Sometimes, I persuade Sloan to take a short nap. We'll be expecting you. Thanks."

John Elledge turned and peddled briskly away.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Mr. Blacksnake Decides to Dine

—BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

Mr. Blacksnake, coiled on a flat stone of the old wall on the edge of the Old Orchard, had fully made up his mind to dine on young woodpeckers. All about him were the little feathered people who live in the Old Orchard all screaming at him and calling him bad names. He didn't mind this in the least. In the first place he was used to it.

In the second place, he knew perfectly that bad names never yet hurt anyone. The truth is, he had resied up there just to draw the birds around him. You see, he is so sharp that he knew that he would be able to tell by the way they acted when they saw him which ones had babies in their homes and which had not. And sure enough he could. He knew that the ones who appeared the most worried at the sight of him were the boldest and came the nearest, were the ones who had babies at home.

One of these was Goldie the Oriole. His nest was up high and out on the slender branches. It is too much work and too risky to climb way up there, thought Mr. Blacksnake.

Another was Chippy the Sparrow. His nest is not very high and it is easy to get to, but his babies are so small that they are hardly worth while," thought Mr. Blacksnake.

A third was Drummer the Woodpecker. His nest is in a hole in that nearest apple tree, because I saw him making it there. It isn't very high up. His babies are of good size and there is sure to be enough for a good meal. Young Woodpeckers are very good eating, so I believe I'll sample them right away," thought Mr. Blacksnake.

He lazily uncoiled and slipped off the stone wall. Then he glided swiftly through the grass, all the birds following and anxiously watching to see where he was going. All the time they made a terrible racket. Mr. Blacksnake paid not the least bit of attention to them. He made straight for the tree in which was the home of Drummer the Woodpecker. When Drummer saw this he became almost crazy. Twice he dashed almost in the face of Mr. Blacksnake. Mr. Blacksnake just chuckled to himself, for he knew now that there wasn't the least doubt about those babies. Mrs. Drummer who remained at home, now came out and she was even braver than Drummer in trying to drive Mr. Blacksnake away. Once he struck her and almost caught her.

"One, two, three, four, five," counted Mr. Blacksnake, and smacked his lips.

But nothing that Drummer or Mrs. Drummer could do changed Mr. Blacksnake's intention. He kept right on and began to climb the tree. Now some of Mr. Blacksnake's relatives—in fact, most of them—cannot climb but he himself is a very good climber and he was no work at all for him to get up to the round hole which was the doorway of Drummer's hole. As he drew near he heard a sound that made his eyes sparkle. You see the babies inside the hollow heard him and being young and quite innocent of the dangers of the Great World they thought it was their mother or father bringing them something to eat, and so each began to call for the goods they thought was being brought to them.

When Mr. Blacksnake reached the doorway he called himself about a branch so as not to lose his balance and fall and then he looked in at the doorway.

One, two, three, four, five! counted Mr. Blacksnake, and smacked his lips.

"My, but I shall have a feast!"

I'm so glad I happened to think to come up to the Old Orchard.
